George Parkley says the gang who talk their heads off about the visit of November, but that date has passed and he is not going to change. More than that, George says, I had nothing to do about the date, and that's another thing. He said he figured it. It was O.K. and made arrangements for the furniture accordingly. Those fellows make me tired. I don't want to see them. I don't want that and Garrison will have to find another good man on duty for the date.

It should have a woman with a past tell her prospective husband the events of her unconventional life and how happy she is now. The picture of the man be equally caught with the woman he loves? This agonizing question—this conflict between truth and first love, the hearts of many women. Today, as in the past, it is a vital, real, agonizing question, borne into the consciousness of millions of women.

The Service arranged by the Local Branch of the B. S. L. and held Sunday afternoon in the Memorial Hall in commemoration of the Fall of Canada was most appropriate and impressive. The hymns led by the combined choir with Miss Florence Garrett at the piano were well rendered.

Rev T. B. Winter, Chapter of No. 10 Branch Canadian Legion, conducted attack of hymns assisted by Rev E. B. Brundage.

The solo, "The Thous Fattato Unto Beasts" by Mendelssohn, sung by Mr. J. H. Smith, was most impressive. "The Choir" was given in a finished manner, despite the fact the singer was suffering from a cold. Her mastery of tone and pressure is a delightful gift that is quite rare. Both soloists were accompanied by Mr. Jenkins organist and Mr. Smith, pianist.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by the Rev Archdeacon Swann, Pastor of the above named church. His address was so thorough provective and stirring in its appeal. It was full to overflowing with helpful suggestions, that it put into general practice.

NEW PIPES FOR THE MEMORIAL

On November 13th Councilors from Municipal Districts of Blackfoot, Bow, Calgary, and Lethbridge, would, Keena and Biddington had the opportunity of hearing Mr. R. P. English, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs, give an outline of the details concerning the proposed larger Municipal City of Lethbridge. Mr. English first gave the meeting a summary of the conditions which in his opinion, warranted the removal of Municipal City to the proposed larger areas as shown on the map lately published in The Herald. These were principally the accessibility of the climate for trade, similarity of methods of farming, approximately similar pro-

...would change the turmoil and underage of the present time, and under the conditions which we all so acutely feel.

The speaker opened his remarks by a very soulful reference to the memory of those who had gone before him, and he said that spirit that prompted the men who went at the call of their country, and while the men themselves opposed the war, they were full of bravery, nevertheless all knew full well that was the secret feeling underneath.

Existing conditions in Ireland previous 1914 the Preacher said there was a creeping creeping monster trying to over-spread itself, and it was necessary to destroy it. It was necessary to stop the onward march of that mailed fist, and well we would realize if we would but realize the difference in the difference in our condition as at present, and that it would have been, had that power been in our hands, which truth the Rev. Archdeacon said we do not state in any spirit of boastfulness or self glory but of sober truth.

We were - oh the Great War was a way to end war and war was to end hope, but when one looks at the present time, the arms on the continent of Europe and the amount of money spent by all countries on armaments, one can see that it is not the end.

Europe is a continent of various nationalities seething with bitterness towards its neighboring countries.

Herein lies the big, the very big task of the present age, both in the churches and outside to spread abroad to strong an end war programme, and establish a spirit of goodwill that no more shall be mainly be slaughtered by such an appalling holocaust.

Mention was made of the movement in England of some sixty thousand young men, largely very strong, strong men, who themselves in case of any future outbreak to fight, unnamed fear that they would be sent to the spirit of trust and magnanimity on their part would have the desired effect on the enemy.

Most interesting point brought out by the speaker was the effect of Cosmic influences, intervening to produce certain results, and that we have seen how these Cosmic influences extend, in the lives of the individual as well as in the bigger events of the world.

The address given by the Rev.
Archdeacon Swanson was one of the strongest and most appropriate that has been given since the opening of the Armistice made November 11th a day of special moment on our calendar.

Mr. H. J. Dwyer and Revell were very effectively given by Trumpeter Sergeant Major Melmer of the Strathmore House. The notes of the service were given as the arrangement of its being played in an adjoining room with doors closed, second highest in the Province.

Strathmore Town Council held a regular meeting on Tuesday night. Mayor Strathmore was confined to his armchair, suffering from a cold, and Deputy Mayor Johnson was called upon to act. Officially which he did most efficiently and was supported by Councillors Keefe and Gault.

Secretary T M Vears presented the Minutes of the last meeting which were found correct and duly confirmed.

Mr. Robert of Anglin Joe Van Tighem or the third quarter was presented and accepted.

The summer's work being finished, the Mayor presented a cheque for the winter's work at the skating rink.

The tariff for the skating rink was discussed and a few changes in the slightly lowering rates for the ensuing season.

The proportion of assistance to deserving cases among the unemployed was reported from Governor Strathmore as being one half and one third for the Municipality but the conditions are going to be very strict and only absolute necessities will be recognized.

It was also decided to have the 1 0 D E to arrange for a big day of some other suggestion to raise funds for the Red Cross.

Mr. Gault reported that he was duly appointed to be Mayor for the period until the new Council is installed in office.

Current accounts totalling about $1000 were paid for payment.

Councillor Miner made a very strong appeal for funds to obtain new pipes for the skating rink. So enclosed was a receipt from Miner that the rate of the members be not the heart to any of the same.

country.

Hierin lies the big, the very big task of the present age, both in the churches and outside to spread the Good News of an anti-war propaganda, and establish a spirit of goodwill that no more shall humanity be slaughtered by such an unspeakable holocaust.

Mention was made of the movement in England of some sixty persons, mostly of the University students who have pledged themselves in case of any future outbreak to march, unarmed for the foe, in the hope that this spirit of trust and magnanimity on their part would have the desired effect.

A most interesting point brought out by the speaker was the effect of Cosmic influences, intervening to produce certain results, and one wonders just how far these Cosmic Influences extend, in the precipitation and also other similar community interests. He mentioned that the areas shown were built on the basis of a population of around 10,000 and an assessed value of land of some somewhere in the neighborhood of Ten Million Dollars. It was pointed out that in so far as this particular area was concerned that the population was something like 10,400 while the assessed value of farm lands amounted to $17,985,000 and that of the urban units to $1,197,000. The area which would be tributary to Strathmore comprised 476 square miles with and average valuation of $19.02 per acre (the second highest in the Province) with a population of 7.07 per square mile.

E. J. Garland, M.P. Address in House of Commons

...my hon. friend I know that. What difference does it make? If we have cattle to sell we want a market for them. It does not matter whether they were finished or unfinished.

Some hon. Members: Oh, yes, it does.

Mr. Garland: I have not time for all these interruptions. Let me say that most of the cattle we ship from the west to eastern Canada are young, unfinished feeders and stockers. You are mighty glad to get them and we are glad to sell them if we can get a fair price for them. But I have not time to answer all these questions. Let us take up this question of wheat.

Mr. McMillan: That is right, leave cattle and get on to wheat.

Mr. Garland: I have dealt with cattle; all we will get in Great Britain, according to the Minister of Agriculture, is a market for less than 25,000 head of cattle. If that is not enough for the hon. gentleman I cannot help it.

With regard to this question of the wheat preference, perhaps Mr. Duffell has been said by hon. members from both parts of this side of the house—and it could well have been said by hon. members opposite—to indicate that in this preference there is no advantage to Canadian wheat growers. There will be no wider market; there will be no increase in price, because we must accept the world price. The Prime Minister was strongly advised, by authorities on wheat in this country, against taking this step, but in his usual forceful, dynamic way he pressed forward to the accomplishment of his aim, and he did accomplish it. In this connection the Alberta wheat pool has this to say:

It is doubtful if even the most optimistic advocate of the wheat preference will go so far as to predict even a small increase in the price of Canadian wheat as a direct result. It is entirely unlikely that any financial benefit will be reflected directly back to Canadian growers from the operation of the wheat preference.

Then the article continues to point out that our exports of Canadian wheat to Great Britain amount to about one hundred million bushels. As a matter of fact, during the last five years the average has been 75,000,000 bushels. At the very best, Mr. Speaker, we can expect a possible market for one hundred million bushels in Great Britain. Recent disclosures have made it apparent that grain moving from Canada through the maritime channels, via the British and United States ports, will not get the preference. How serious is that? First of all let me say this question is it fair of the Prime Minister of Canada to now get rid of responsibility for his action by saying that this policy is one for the British government to decide? Remember that it was the Prime Minister, more than any other individual or organization on earth, who thrust this preference on the conference. It was his pet baby from the beginning, but he did not work his way through them. Now he finds himself up against the most serious problem that has faced western grain growers in many years.

What are we to do about it? We must not forget that from one-half to two-thirds of all our wheat going to the United Kingdom always has gone via the United States ports. Why is that? Just take a look at the map and study the freight tariffs and you will get the answer. That has been so because the cost of shipping has been less. Now it is seriously proposed that we should sacrifice many dollars in freight rates in order to move our grain east through Canadian Atlantic ports. I tell you, Mr. Speaker, that hon. members who insist on advocating this policy which will utterly ruin the grain growers of western Canada, are undertaking something which may have the most serious effect on this country that I could state. Frankly, if there is to be continued insistence on this policy, I hesitate to imagine what it may mean to confederation.

Some hon. Members: Oh, oh.

Mr. Garland: Yes, I am serious in what I say. We are people who came to this country as you did; we went west, and we have contributed our toil and our lives to the advancement of Canada. Now if you say that you are going to thrust us into even greater poverty and degradation than we now suffer, to force our grain to go through your ports, you are making a great error in judgment and in politics.

Mr. McMillan: Do you want to be spoken to all your life?

Mr. Garland: No, that is what the maritime provinces want, to be spoken to all their lives. What to the members of this recent decision on the part of the British; it means that from the time of receipt of the grain will be shifted from its natural to an artificial channel, at great costs to us. Minus, I have every sympathy with the aspirations and ambitions of those living in Nova Scotia and the maritime provinces, but let me say to them that their ambitions cannot be realized through the sacrifice of the greatest producers of natural wealth in the Dominion of Canada, the wheat growers. Their ambitions can be realized if this country will undertake to provide us with as low a freight rate to the Atlantic coast as we can now get to Atlantic ports in the United States. Therefore it means that from free-trade outward this total volume of six hundred million bushels will have to be diverted from its natural channel, to the extent to which it goes to the United Kingdom, if it is to get this preference. In turn, this means that the chief factor in keeping down Atlantic cargo rates, that is, the New York liner traffic, will not be working for us. Our experience in the past with traffic on the Atlantic has been that all ship-owners, and particularly transatlantic carriers, are only too eager to secure any opportunity that may present itself to advance rates. That very fact was indicated in the rates put on record last night by the hon. member for Macleod (Mr. Cooke). We find that the rate from New York to Liverpool is now only 4 1/2 cents, while the rate to Glasgow, which is not a constant route on regular schedule is 5 cents, and the rate to Antwerp is 10 cents. What the rate will be from Halifax to the old country hon. members opposite will know. The next thing this agreement will do is provide our lake-shippers association, or combine, or pool of whatever the pleasant thing is called, with an additional opportunity still further to exploit our grain growers on the west. It is limited, means that we must keep our grain from Europe or any other foreign port in the United States and that if we depart from the long and expensive channel of Canadian rail transportation we will lose any alleged advantage there may be in this preference. We must remember that we ship to the old country about one hundred million bushels of wheat, and that we ship through United States ports from one-half to two-thirds of this amount. On that portion we will now get no preference. It is easy to imagine the amount of preference we will get on the balance. What an enormous benefit this is going to be to those who do not advance prices; does not widen markets; it applies only to about fifty million bushels of a six hundred million bushel available supply. Lord Speers for the preference? That, Mr. Speaker, is what is offered, sacrificing an industry which, in the ten years from 1921 to 1931, has taken place as well since 1931, has suffered a serious situation in the ownership of land.

Let me give some figures in that connection. Today we have 28,000 fewer full owners of farms than we had in 1921. We have an increase of 22.9 per cent in the number of tenant farmers. We have an increase of 79 per cent in the number of farms partly owned and partly operated by tenant farmers. We have a 20 per cent decline in the value of farm property which, added up, means a loss of $1,025,000,000 in the value of farm property. We have a decline in land value which, worked out to apply to each individual farm, means $1,495 per farm.

Mr. Deputy Speaker: The hon. gentleman's time has expired.

Mr. Garland: May I finish my sentence? We have a decline in building values of $1,000,000. The average value of farm land has declined thirty nine per cent, and we have this fact that must be impressed upon hon. members opposite, that 234,000 farmers out of 728,000 have reported as to their mortgages, and that number, one hon. gentleman opposite offer to us as the way out of our difficulties is—nothing!

The following statement was made by Sir Thomas Horder, physician to the Prince of Wales, at a public dinner gathering held April 15th, in London, England:

"The willing and happy worker will get more work done and do better work. It is in this old content that the alcoholic beverages like beer, contain the greatest economic efficiency. The function of the brain as much, and even more than the physiology of digestion and nutrition is very great. It is such a beverage as moderate use of the same is given to life with results in larger and richer activities."

The beer brewed in Alberta contains every element and quality that Sir Thomas Horder would expect to find in the wholesome beverages of malt and hops he so strongly advocates.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER CROP PRICE GUARANTY

Take advantage of this offer . . .
Get the new equipment you need to reduce your production costs

Many farmers who need new machines for the economical production of their crops have been reluctant to buy them because of uncertainty as to the price they will receive later in the year for these farm products.

In order to meet this situation, the International Harvester Company of Canada, Ltd., offers to farmers purchasing machines after this date, a definite price guaranty on wheat based on 77 cents a bushel for No. 1 Northern at Winnipeg, applying to a liberal portion of the purchase price of the machine. If the market price for wheat does not reach the guaranteed price at the time payment becomes due on notes given and maturing this year, the purchaser of machines under the plan will receive a credit equal to the difference.

Any farmer in Canada, regardless of where he lives or what he raises, can purchase McCormick-Deering farm machines under the terms of this offer.

This is your chance to replace worn-out and obsolete equipment on a favorable price basis. Let us explain the details of this remarkable plan and tell you just how to take advantage of it in equipping your farm with the new cost-reducing machines you need at a real saving.

CURRENT COMMENTS UPON MANY POLITICAL EVENTS

Speculation as to who will sit on the Roosevelt Cabinet has commenced. Al Smith, for services rendered will be awarded one of the choice pickings. Owen Young for graciously keeping in the background at the logical moments, will be in line for Cabinet seat. And what was Mr. McAdoo promised for awaiting the California vote for Franklin D. Chicago. Surely nothing less than a nice cushy job around the League of Nations for the next four years. But lower in the social scale there will be evidence of more wire pulling. Every new Democratic Senator and Congressman will be called upon to find jobs for his relatives and in-laws—good paying jobs involving little or no labor. The Republican whittlings flat-tops, tax collectors and dog catchers will be making the best of a bad job during the next four months before being called on to vacate in favor of the lusty Democrats, who, in past decades gave the term clean-up a new significance. Speaking of political jobs, it is interesting to read in Hunsford last two hundred and seventy postmasters have been fired in the Province of Quebec by the Conservative postmaster general since August 1930, for alleged political partisanship, while in the remaining eight Provinces, two hundred and nineteen postmasters have been given the green light for the same alleged reason. This should not be held against the Rt. Hon. gentlemen in the four new provinces, as the Hon. Laurier or against his Hon. Postmaster-general Mr. Sauve, because I remember rightly the post office department, under Liberal administration, was subjected to similar charges with relation to postmasters in Ontario. Take a glance over the list of parties which contested seats for the German Reichstag last week. Four brands of Socialists—National Socialists, Communists, Christian Socialists and just plain Socialists; three brands of Nationalists—National Socialists, Nationalists and the State Party. Then there are the Catholics, Bavarians and Populists to add to the confusion in addition to the independent units, who, apparently can't agree with anyone. National Socialists, led by Hitler threatening to exterminate all opposition brands. Communists denouncing every other group as agents of Capitalism. Each group ready to cut the throats of the other for the sake of democracy, liberty, fraternity and humanity. A.P.K. —Brimblewell Mail
